To Whom It May Concern:

Recent guidelines have been issued restricting business activities to “essential services.” Pertinent to landscape operations, “essential services” includes those services that are necessary to maintain the health, safety, sanitation and welfare of the public. The landscape services we are currently providing further these requirements as follows:

Protection of Public Safety: unmaintained exterior spaces dramatically increase the rate and chance of injuries from unmitigated hazards. Safety maintenance of landscape areas and materials is imperative to reduce the risk of falling branches, obstructed roadways and walkways, and weather-related (such as high winds) injuries.

Protection from Dangerous Conditions: services related to storm water management systems, water lines, irrigation breaks/repairs, fire hazards, and related concerns, provides protection from damaging and dangerous conditions.

Service of Essential Businesses: providing these services to essential businesses including healthcare operators, grocery stores, banks, educational institutions, residential facilities, professional services buildings and open spaces aids in safety to the public.

Protection of Public Health: performing essential controls and treatments to green space reduces the transmission of dangerous and deadly pests and diseases.

LandCare is committed to performing only those “essential” services as defined in guidelines during this critical time. We have limited our full range of landscape services and are vigorously following COVID-19 protocols to ensure the safety of our team members and the public.
